My opinion is that on the farm you must have as much practical work as possible. 684. You think we will be compelled to retain the services of men capable of teaching science on the farms?--Yes. 685. And you think it is possible to devise some scheme?--Yes. 686. And the memorandum we have asked you to put in, you will mention that scheme?--Yes. 687. And in whatever scheme you devise you will make provision for what we call Higher Education ?--Yes. It is necessary because if you take the present state of the Colony you will find that we have to depend almost wholly upon outsiders for our technically trained agricultural experts such as creamery managers, viticulturists, etc. Therefore I strongly advocate training young men to be teachers. 688. That statement is a full reply as to the...
