Excerpt: . . . important ramifications for future non-or counterproliferation activities 6 by the Alliance. Obvious questions arose in 1994 as to the consequences of this new proliferation debate on NATO strategy. This paper examines these questions by focusing on the actions of the Senior Defense Group on Proliferation ( DGP ), since the DGP was the body most concerned with the military ramifications and counterproliferation aspects of nonproliferation policy. This was an innovative dimension of North Atlantic cooperation, and was at least partly responsible for the French decision to return to the military side of the Alliance structure in late 1995. The North Atlantic Council approved the DGPs conclusions and recommended work program in June 1996. Whether the Alliance can or will fund the new requirements identified by the DGP, however, remains problematic. NATO's counterproliferation effort surely ranks as one of the most ambitious in NATO's history. As we shall see, a concerted effort by an alliance...
