Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from An Address of the Representatives of the Religious Society of Friends: For Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Delaware, to Their Fellow-Citizens, on the Use of Intoxicating Drinks We may be allowed, therefore, to call attention to a few statements of a general character, which cannot fail to impress us all with the alarming extent which intemperance has reached, and the deep hold it has gained upon the community. As compared with human slavery in our own country, - by which but one-tenth of its population was thereby brought into bondage, and less than one-half its territory directly affected, - the scourge of intemperance enters almost every town and hamlet in the land, and destroys not only the bodies but the souls of men. In the late war our nation is said to have sacrificed more than a million of lives and three billions of dollars. To support the liquor traffic, it is computed, from authentic sources, that the people of the United States expend annually six hundred millions of dollars, and waste untold wealth besides by the impoverishment of her citizens and the destruction of their health. Noah Davis, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of New York, said, in a public speech lately delivered by him, That habits of intemperance are the chief cause of crime is the testimony of all judges of large experience. It is established beyond argument, by official statistics, by the experience of courts, and by the observations of enlightened philanthropists, that the prevalence of intemperance in every country is the standard by which its crimes may be measured. The report of the State Board of Charities for Massachusetts for 1869...
