In the issue of July 22, 1734, it is stated that the grants made by the British Parliament for the entire year of 1734 amounted to 3,866,230 Pounds, 17 Shillings and 4 Pence. I suppose Great Britain now spends that sum in a single day. There was much pomp and splendor in public life in those days. In the issue of September 2, 1734, appears the following news item: This day His Excellency, our Governor, and family, embarked for his other Government of New Jersey, being attended to the water-side by the Mayor, Aldermen, Commonalty and sundry the principal gentlemen of this city, and the officers and soldiers of the Garrison in arms. Upon their embarking they were saluted by the Fort with fifteen guns and by the gentlemen with three huzzas. Names have changed since that day. Who would recognize the name of one of the principal battlefields of the Revolution in the following notice in the issue of September 23, 1734: Public notice is hereby given. That a Post-office is now settled at Trent-Town in New Jersey, at the house of Joseph Read, Esq., his son, Andrew Read, being appointed post-master, where all persons in the adjacent parts may receive the letters that are directed to them, and where they may put in their letters directed to any parts or places, and due care will be taken to convey them accordingly; the said Joseph Read having qualified himself for the said...
