TENDENCIES TO DISUNION. 1850-61. 234. The abolitionists had never ceased to din the iniquity of slavery into the ears of the American people. Calhoun, Webster, and Clay, with nearly all Slavery and the the other political leaders of 1850, had united in deploring the wickedness of these fanatics, who were persistently stirring up a question which was steadily widening the distance between the sections. They mistook the symptom for the disease. Slavery itself had put the south out of harmony with its surroundings, and still more out of harmony with the inevitable lines of the country s development. Even in 1850, though they hardly yet knew it, the two sections had drifted so far apart that they were practically two different countries. 235. The case of the south was one of arrested development. The south remained very much as in 1790; while...
